UGHELLI – Tragedy struck in the early hours of Monday at Bomadi town, headquarters of Bomadi Local Government Area of Delta State as a jealous young lady identified as Piyai George, aged 22, took her life and that of her one-year-old child after drinking Sniper (a pesticide).

DAILY INDEPENDENT gathered that residents at Clark's compound in Atoloware quarters woke up to meet the gloomy atmosphere in the riverside community as news of the sudden death of Piyai and her child spread.

A source who pleaded anonymity said the mother of the deceased young woman said she discovered in the morning that Piyai and her son were still in their sleep while other family members were awake.

The woman was said to have raised the alarm which attracted residents who forced her (deceased) room open and found her lifeless body and that of her child with fumes oozing out from their mouth.

The source disclosed that the lifeless bodies were rushed to the Bomadi General Hospital where they were confirmed dead.

It was gathered that doctors in the hospital had also confirmed that they died after taking sniper pesticide.

The source said the motive behind the suicide act could not be ascertained as the deceased did not leave a suicide note but, according to him, an unconfirmed source said it might not be unconnected with frustration from the father of her child in their relationship.
