

Metro

DELSU 200 Level Student Drowns In Delta Beach

KELVIN ONYEKACHUKWU

WARRI

A student of the Delta State University (DELSU), Abraka, simply identified as Divine has been reportedly found dead in a beach popularly known as N100 beach, Abraka, Delta State.

Daily Independent gathered that the incident occurred on Sunday at the Voustapin Beach, Abraka.

Sources said, "A 200 Level student in the Department of Chemistry, Delta State University (DELSU), Abraka, Mr. Divine, on Sunday got drowned in a popular beach in the university community.

"He died at Voustapin Beach popularly called 'N100 Beach. Divine went swimming with his friends when the sad incidence occurred. While catching their fun, they discovered that Divine was nowhere to be found. We thus went in search of him only to discover that he was dead after drowning," they said.

A relative of Divine said that the parents of the deceased have been notified of the incident.

When contacted the State Police Public Relations Officer (PPRO), DSP Edafe Bright, confirmed the incident to in a phone chat.

The PPRO said, "It is true; it has just been confirmed that someone died really. But I am yet to get the detailed report about the death."