Two men driving in Ash coloured Toyota car rammed into a stationary truck and died on the spot Tuesday in Anambra State.

Two other occupants of the car came out unhurt.

The crash occurred at Ogbunike hill by slaughter house, on the Onitsha-Awka express way at about 7 o'clock in the morning

According to road accident report issued by the Federal Road Safety Commission, the ash coloured Toyota corolla marked HTE 365 CU rammed into a red (Howo Tipper) which has no registration number.

The cause of the fatal crash was attributed to Road Obstruction (OBS) and excessive speed.

It said, "According to an eyewitness report, the tipper developed fault on the road and the Toyota Corolla rammed into the Tipper from the rear and crashed.

Four male adults were involved in the crash with two male adults dead and two male adult came out unhurt."
