Nollywood actor, Murphy Afolabi has reportedly passed away after bathroom fall. The popular Yoruba movie star, notable for his deep knowledge and use of Yoruba cultural panegyrics was 49 at the time of his death.

According to reports, the popular actor died after a tragic fall in his bathroom inside his home, which was a gift from Lagos transportation stakeholder, MC Oluomo.

The top movie star and film producer had recently celebrated his birthday on Friday, May 5.

This is coming a few days after news of veteran Nollywood actor, Saint Obi's passing filtered unto the internet.

After the news of Obi's passing broke on Sunday, May 7, industry stakeholders were unable to confirm the news as the family did not confirm or deny the news. But it was later confirmed by longtime friends of the actor.
