Six suspected pipeline vandals operating at Kenyangbene Community, Warri-South West Local Government Area of Delta State, met their death when they ran into a pit toilet while fleeing from the taskforce on pipeline vandalisation who were on monitoring schedule in the area, Tuesday.

The suspects, according to sources, were consumed by the waste material in the abandoned toilet as soon as they fell into it.

Source at the community alleged to have been under siege of vandals' activities in the last two years, hinted that the six vandals abandoned 36 jerry cans of illegal petroleum products in the bush where they had been operating.

of oil producing areas in the state had last month in a press conference in Asaba, cautioned youths of the area against pipeline vandalism, assuring Chevron Nigeria Limited (CNL) of the protection of its facilities from vandals.

Speaking to our correspondent, the police spokesman in the state, ASP Lucky Uyabeme, said the major problem in the state, especially in oil producing communities, has been illegal bunkering, adding that over 20 suspected oil thieves have been arrested in the last four months of the police's operation 'Clean up' exercise.
