BY PAUL CHIAMA, Abuja

The management and staff of Nigeria University Commission (NUC), Federal Capital Territory, Abuja, were shocked last Monday over the death of one of its staff, Mamman Mohammed Mamman, who died at the age of 33.

Mamman died in a ghastly car accident near Bwari, FCT, on his way from Kaduna where he went to visit his family over the weekend. The death occurred when the vehicle he was travelling in somer-saulted and he died on the spot.

The late Mamman worked in the Academic Standard Department of NUC as Trainee Officer 1, before his tragic death.

Meanwhile, the NUC has condoled the bereaved family over the untimely death.

In a condolence message to the father of the deceased, Mohammed Mamman and his uncle, Mohammed Suleiman Ba Gimba, a senior manager with EIF Plc, the NUC management regretted the death of the young man, saying his death, which came as a shock, is not only a loss to NUC and the family alone but the nation at large.

The NUC management also described him as a very dedicated staff who had the interest to make better wherever he found himself in in life.

Mamman left behind a wife, a daughter and his parents to mourn him as well as other relations. His father, Mohammed Mamman is the executive chairman, Yobe State Hospitals Management Board. He has since been buried according to Islamic rites.
