Mob Roasts Native Doctor To Death Over Interest In Married Women

A native doctor identified as Baba Emeka who operates at Okpanam community near Asaba, Delta State was yesterday roasted to death by an angry mob who after beating him to stupor, set him ablaze.

Speaking on the issue, the divisional police officer in the area, who preferred anonymity, confirmed that the native doctor was set ablaze following evidence of sexual intercourse with a married woman who had sought previous assistance from him when she had differences with her husband, adding that some persons had been arrested for interrogation.

LEADERSHIP reliably gathered that trouble started for the self-acclaimed native doctor who specialises in preparing love portions, last Tuesday, when he allegedly prepared charms for a housewife whose husband has dumped over six years ago for inexplicable issues and had recently reconciled with the husband.

It was further gathered that the charms prepared to make the woman attracted to her spouse began to have reverse action as the woman began to consistently dream about the native doctor having sex with her.

Sources said on the fateful Tuesday, the native doctor invited the woman for another set of charms after she had complained that the initial charms did not work as expected and when she got there, he hypnotised her and began to make love to her.
