Ritualists Kill Man In Adamawa

Mohammed Ismail

— March 22, 2014

The peace of Njoboliyo, a village in Yola South Local Government was shattered as a resident of the village, Enoch Baidoo was killed in the wee hours of Wednesday.

Enoch met his untimely death in the make shift structure which served as his permanent resident for many years in the village.

Resident of the area who were visibly shocked by the gruesome murder of Baidoo confessed that he was a peace loving person who does not harbour acrimony against anybody.

Some residents of the area have linked the killing to the ritualists as they said his two eyes were plucked out by his assailants.

Over the years Njoboli community in Yola South Local Government Area of Adamawa state is known for peace.

Residents say Enoch Baidoo migrated to Njoboli community over 22 years ago from the neighboring Chad Republic in search of greener pasture.

As at the time of filing in this report, there is no trace of any member of his family.

A resident of the area Mallam Njobdi Haro call for the intensification of security in the area as he said this is the first time they witnessed such odious crime just as he call for intensification of prayers for Allah to unravel those behind the condemnable act.

All efforts to contact the Police Public Relations Officer SP Mohammed Ibrahim as at the time of filing this report proved abortive as his mobile number could not be connected.
