Police Arrest 9 Over Death Of 2 In Imo CGC Election

Stanley Uzoaru

— March 25, 2014

The Imo State Police Command yesterday said it has arrested nine suspects in connection with the death of two citizens of the state who were killed during the Community Government Council (CGC) election in the state.

The state Police Commissioner, Abdul Majid Ali who addressed journalists yesterday said four of the suspects were arrested at Ngor Okpala for allegedly killing a man when the election turned violent in the area while five were arrested at Ikeduru for allegedly fuelling a stampede that killed an 81-year-old man.

Ali who said investigations were still on-going, warned citizens of the state of the readiness of his scorpion squad to rise to any security challenge in the state.
