

apparatus put in place for the visiting governor.

Nigerian Police and Department of State Security Service attached to the government

Adejobo, when contacted, said he was not aware of the case.

HOTEL ROOM TRAGEDY: Woman Escapes After Lover Dies

BY MATTHEW DIKE, Lagos

seen.

A man who took a woman to a hotel in Apapa area of Lagos State did not live to tell the story as he died in the hotel room.

The man identified as James Peters was alleged to have moved into the hotel room with the woman but when the door was opened, only the corpse of the man was

The woman was said to have escaped from the hotel situated at Randle Crescent, to evade arrest. A police source attached to Apapa police station disclosed that "the man took his partner to the hotel room to have sex but probably died in the process.

The woman will not like to wait and face the police and court over the death of the man. A staff of the hotel disclosed that the woman did not tell anybody when she was leaving".

LEADERSHIP gathered that the corpse has since been removed from the hotel to a general hospital morgue for autopsy.

The deceased was said to be a prominent figure who lived at James Igbe Street, Olodi-Apapa.