Bomber attacks restaurant, kills 3 in Potiskum

A suicide bomber blew himself up in a restaurant in Potiskum, Yobe State, killing three persons and wounding 12 others, a hospital source told Reuters news agency.

The town has frequently been attacked by Boko Haram militant group.

Earlier yesterday, witnesses reported that Boko Haram fighters stormed Askira Uba in Borno State and burned down houses to ashes.

Fleeing residents said militants first raided Askira Uba in Borno State on Sunday, torching the home of the city's top official. Cameroon's military yesterday confirmed that their soldiers were killed during a "series of clashes" with the militants on Monday.

Also yesterday, commander of U.S. Special Forces Operations in Africa, James Linder, told the Reuters news agency that the United States will provide communications equipment and intelligence to the fight against Boko Haram.
