

DEATH: 70-year-old Dies After Sex With 2 Teenage Girls

BY STANLEY UZOARU, Owerri

A 70-year-old man has been reported dead after engaging in sex with two minors, aged 14 and 16, in a hotel room located at Ogbaku, in Mbaitolu Local Government Area of Imo State.

The man, whose name was given as Collins Iheanacho, was said to be the village chairman of Umueye in Irete, Owerri west Local Government and a retired professional driver from a popular oil company in the country.

A reliable source told LEADERSHIP that the late Iheanacho was in the habit of luring teenagers to the hotel, which was said to be his love nest.

According to the source close to the deceased, the two teenagers were said to have been a regular sex toys to the late old man even after several reprimands from their parents.

LEADERSHIP gathered that both girls had honoured the invitation of the man at the weekend at the hotel located at an interior part of Ogbaku.

The two girls, who are said to be in junior secondary school, were not aware of their joint visit to the man until they got to the hotel.

But both girls were said to have jumped into bed with the man, and after a while, he was said to have started panting heavily before he finally gave up.

Sensing danger, the girls ran away from the scene but they were later arrested at their homes by the police. •
