

guri that "Boko Haram terrorists are having field day in Monguno axis. They slaughtered four persons in a hamlet not far away from Monguno last Wednesday.

Another member of the vigilante in the southern part of Borno state had also informed journalists that the terrorists had attacked and set ablaze five villages and slaughtered at least 20 persons near Gwoza, another major town that was recently said to have been liberated by the Nigerian army.

"I had just returned from Gwoza area where I live and I can confirm to you that I left there after burying 20 persons slaughtered by Boko Haram terrorists in Valle and Jimnini hamlets near Kirawa village under Gwoza local government area", said Mamman Bukar Karau, a local hunter and member of the Vigilante Group of Nigeria, VGN.

Residents of Maiduguri, who have been forced to remain indoors, have begun to lament that they are running out of food and water supplies as the curfew drags into day two. "We really don't know what to do in this situation when we are forced to stay indoors without any preparation for what to eat during the curfew period", said Babagana Zanna, a

gro
the
T
sion
Col
to now rela from
Acc
on are
B
dug rela
nal
sch
the
finc
sch
Son
kilo
exa
ban

'At

At
two vig

Bal
the
bur
ing
the
the
ilan

00 — Suspect

The suspect in a confessional statement disclosed that he was living happily until the drug barons approached him with a promise of a white collar job abroad.

Okonkwo affirmed, "I was in my shop at Idumota market where I sell used clothes. I will never forget the day a young man came to my s he is

lives
to he tunit
excit
my a
my p
was h