Police detectives in Kwale Ndokwa West Local Government Area of Delta State on Thursday killed two robbery suspects and arrested six others in the area.

It was reliably gathered that one of the dead suspects, identified as Chukwudi Opobo (alias Oko-man), 26 years old, had been in the Police wanted list for allegedly terrorising Kwale community and its environs, before he met his Waterloo.

He was said to have been behind most cult related killings within the area, and had also raped some married women before he was killed.

Sources said that the Oko-man as he was popularly called, hailed from Eweshi community, Oniticha-Ukwani in Ndokwa West Local Government Area of the state and was gunned down around Ugiliamai town when the Police detectives acted on a tip-off.

Confirming the incident, the Police Public Relations Officer in the state, DSP Celestina Kalu said the Police anti-robbery detectives moved into the scene where the suspects were operating adding that on getting there, the suspects opened fire on them, leaving the Police no choice but to retaliate in which they killed two of the six -man gang while others escaped with bullet wounds.
