BY ABU NMODU, Minna

The family of a police inspector, Sunday Musa, killed in Akodo Ibeju, Lekki in Lagos State is demanding justice over the killing of the officer.

The family's spokesman, Dr Amanabo Musa, the brother of the deceased, disclosed in Minna that the late police officer had led a team to the area on a peace-keeping operation on alleged activities of land grabbers.

Musa said there were confessional statements from some of the alleged killers of his younger brother indicting the village head saying, "My brother was abducted by militants also known as Omo onile at the Akodo Ibeju area of Lagos state, some of the men arrested over the killing of my brother said they acted on the instruction of the village head. They confessed that the village head boasted he is a friend of the commissioner of police alleging that no one will investigate the killing."

"Problem may have started for my brother who was sent to the area to maintain peace over a parcel of land as vested interests would stop at nothing to arm-twist the law. Three weeks into the peace-keeping mission, hostilities erupted between the feuding divide. My brother was able to rescue some of the victims but was taken captive and murdered on the 29th of November 2016," he added
