

How I Killed, Harvested Ezebudo's Organs In Imo - Suspect

ANGELA NKWO-AKPOLU,
Owerri

A suspect, 29 years old Nnaemeka Egbuaba, yesterday, confessed to the murder of one Sixtus Ezebudo in Imo State and later sold his body parts for N1.5million in Lagos during a parade by the Imo State Police command.

Nnaemeka and 53 other suspects were paraded, including two women, for criminal offences ranging from conspiracy, armed robbery, murder, defilement, kidnapping, child trafficking, IPOB/ESN terrorism activities, unlawful possession of prohibited firearms, receiving of stolen properties, car snatching, and vandalism of electricity cables.

He said he had lured Sixtus from his parents' house in Orlu to an uncompleted building, overpowered and killed him, and later severed the penis, heart, lungs, and hands and took it to Lagos, saying he was paid N1.5million by the receiver for ritual purposes.

Nnaemeka said, "I killed somebody but I don't know his name. After I killed him, I took some body parts, his lungs, penis, and hands to the buyer in Lagos. It was a contract, they paid me N1.5million.

"I'm not a member of Eastern Security Network (ESN) but I took oath to work with them. They caught me one day and took me to their commander, Odogwu in my local government area, Orsu.