A 300-level Linguistics student of the Adekunle Ajasin University, Akungba Akoko(AAUA), identified as Emmanuel, has been shot dead.

Emmanuel was said to have been killed by unidentified gunmen in one of the private students' hostels in the university community at the weekend.

The reason for his killing is not yet known at the time of this report.

The incident, according to a source, has sent shockwaves through the university town. Confirming the incident on Monday, the Vice Chairman, of the National Association of Universities Students, (NAUS); Ondo Campus Monitoring Committee, ONDO CMC, Comrade Oladele Emmanuel, called on security agents and the management of the university to investigate the matter and bring the culprits to book.

Oladele said the circumstances surrounding the tragedy remain unclear, leaving the students with questions and a deep sense of loss.

According to him, “In times like these, our collective safety and well-being must be our paramount concern.

We urgently appeal to the AAUA management, the state government, and the security operatives to conduct a thorough investigation into this incident.”

He further stated that, “It is imperative that justice prevails swiftly, and the perpetrators of this heinous act are held accountable. The university community must be reassured that such a tragic event will be met with the full force of the law and diligent investigative efforts.

“The death of Emmanuel is not just a loss to his family and friends, but to the entire AAUA community. His potential and contributions to our shared academic environment are irreplaceable. We mourn his untimely departure and extend our deepest condolences to his loved ones during this difficult time.”
