

Three more Borno blast victims dead

From Ablodun Joseph,
Maiduguri

THREE more victims of Tuesday's explosions in Maiduguri, the Borno State capital, have died at the University of Maiduguri Teaching Hospital (UMTH).

This brings to 14 the number of casualties.

Nine people are being treated at the hospital of the injuries they sustained in the attack.

The government has promised to compensate the victims.

Governor Kashim Shettima spoke when he visited some of the places affected by the blasts.

These included St. Patrick's Catholic Church and the Dandal Police Station.

He said: "We want to reiterate that what happened on Tuesday was unfortunate and we pray that we don't witness such again. We will reach out to the families of the deceased and we want them to accept our sincere condolences."
