

Two suicide bombers die as mission turns bloody

•SCENE OF HORROR: People gather at the scene of the explosion in Kaduna...yesterday. Arrowed are the bodies and the motorcycle.

NSA Dasuki, Boko Haram 'begin talks'

For two would-be suicide bombers, it was a mission impossible yesterday in Kaduna.

Their bombs went off, killing them instantly. A third victim, who was injured in the explosion, died later in the hospital, it was learnt.

Kaduna police spokesman Abubakar Balteh, a deputy superintendent who confirmed the explosion, said: "Two people were carrying an object suspected to be Improvised Explosive Device (IED) on a motorbike from Singer Road, about going towards Lugard Hall Roundabout. When they got close to the NNPC filling station, the device exploded, killing the two.

"There was no other casualty. We have sent forensic experts to the area to take evidence, which we will analyse for additional information. We are on top of the situation.”

The blast sent residents of the area scampering for safety.

Eye witnesses, told The Nation that the men carrying the object, which looked like a television set, were heading towards Ungwan Seriki, but it exploded before they got to their destination, which was not immediately known. The House of Assembly is located a few metres from the scene.

A military check point and one of the biggest mosques in Kaduna are about one kilometre from the scene.

The mosque was said to be hosting the final round of the Tasfir (lecture) normally carried out during Ramadan.

The explosion occurred about 3.00pm, opposite the Ali Akilu Road branch of Sterling Bank.

Unconfirmed reports said a third person, who was driving behind the two people carrying the IED, had his stomach ripped open and later died at the 44 Army Reference Hospital.

A swam of bees invaded the area immediately after the explosion, forcing onlookers to cut leaves to ward off the bees while security operatives shot canisters of tear gas.

Many people, including journalists that went to the scene, were stung by the bees.

An eye witness, Fatima Yakubu, said she was passing by when she heard the blast and ran there only to see the three victims lying on the ground, not far away from some motorcycles, affected by the explosion.

“I was coming from the house going to plait my hair when I heard the sound. I thought it was gunshot; then, I saw the three of them (victims) and three motorcycles. They were all lying on the ground. Two of them were dead; one of them was still moving. Then the bees spread around and started stinging people.”

Another eyewitness, Rita James, said she and her sister were indoors when they heard the sound of the explosion and ran out to see what made the sound and they saw the three victims and their motorcycles, destroyed by the explosion.

“We heard a very loud sound. We were scared and ran out to see what caused the sound only to see the three victims, two dead and one alive and three motorcycles. The police did not come on time, but they later cordoned off the road,” Rita said.

Another eyewitness, Alhaji Abubakar Jibrin, who sells cars close, the scene of the explosion said: “We were sitting here when we saw three persons on different motorcycles and suddenly we had a very loud explosion. The sound caused serious confusion and we quickly took our vehicles inside despite the thick smoke that filled the air.

“The next thing we saw were two dead bodies and the third one was crying for help. Another Okada man opted to help him, but we prevented him. When the smoke subsided, we saw only two bodies and three motorcycles. Nobody can say what happened to the third person.

“When somebody crossed from the other side to help the third person we stopped him, we told him how can you help somebody who wants to kill innocent people? So he left, but we cannot say how he left. Even the third person that was crying for help, we cannot say precisely how he disappeared.

“They were heading towards Kawo, but where precisely, we cannot say. But certainly their destination may not be far from here for it to have exploded in that manner.

“Although we suffered serious attack from bees which have been living on those poles for over ten years, the sound of the explosion scattered them and they stung us seriously while trying to take our vehicles inside for fear of another explosion. It was difficult for the soldiers and policemen who came to the scene to have access to the place because of the bees.

Another eye witness who identified himself as Ahmed Yusuf said:

“We saw one of the men on Okada carrying something that looks like a television set on the carrier of the motorcycle which exploded all of a sudden.

“One of the persons on one of the motorcycles was crying for help and we wanted to help him when all of a sudden, the bees drove us back.

Benedict Obadiah said he came to the bank to withdraw money and as he was about driving out, he heard a loud sound and a thick smoke which prevented him from driving out.

The Federal Government has reopened talks with militant group Boko Haram, the sect which is behind the state of bombings and killings in the North, it was learnt yesterday.

An earlier attempt of third party talks between the sect and the government, which was brokered by National President of the Supreme Council for Sharia'ah in Nigeria, Dr. Datti Ahmad, broke down as soon as it started.

Ahmad claims that the talks, which were meant to be secret, were exposed to the media by government officials.

President Goodluck Jonathan has consistently called on the group to give a face not to remain faceless but to come forward to put its grievances on the table.

Yesterday, a purported spokesman for the group said it had begun talks with the government to end violence in the North.

In a statement obtained by Voice of America (VOA), Habu Mohammed, who claims to be a deputy to Boko Haram leader Abubakar Shekau, said the group decided to initiate the peace moves in response to public appeals for peace in the country. The statement, VOA said, was given to it in Mecca, Saudi Arabia.

It did not provide additional details.

The Islamic militant group has claimed responsibility for numerous attacks, including church bombings and the bombing of a United Nations building and the police headquarters in Abuja. The group has also threatened media organisations.

It could not be confirmed yesterday who Mohammed is as he had neither spoken on behalf of the group nor issued a statement.

Vice-President Namadi Sambo was in Mecca to observe the lesser Hajj where the Boko Haram statement was reportedly made available to VOA.

But the statement's at variance with the position expressed by Shekau in a YouTube post last month in which he foreclosed further dialogue with the government.

Thereafter, there was the attack on a Deeper Christian Life Church in Okene in which 20 worshippers were shot dead during a Bible Study class. Boko Haram claimed responsibility for shooting.

No government official was willing to comment on the talks yesterday.

But a source said National Security Adviser Col. Sambo Dasuki had opened talks with Boko Haram leaders as a way of finding solutions to the insecurity in the country.

Details are under wraps, however.

A source said the talks started a few weeks ago but nobody was ready to say where the two parties met.

The source said: "The NSA has met with Boko Haram leaders, but you cannot have the details now. These sessions were meant to appease the leaders of the sect and give insight into their grievances.

"All I can tell you is that the signs so far are positive. We are hopeful that the two parties can come to the roundtable for dialogue."

Asked who the NSA had talks with, the source said: "I won't mention any name but they are leaders of the sect. It is when the whole issue is finally resolved that we can tell you how the peace deal was sealed.”

We are talking of peace talks having commenced while the evil sect members are still carrying out attacks. The ideal thing is to have a ceasefire before peace talks are resumed. I'm not surprised anyway because they are stark illiterates who hate Western Education. As much as I want peace to reign in the nation, I would like to caution the security operatives not to relax in their vigilance because the so-called peace talks may be an attempt to catch them napping. The sect members can not be trusted because they are like rabid dogs. The Word of GOD says "he who digs a pit shall fall into his own pit; and he who rolls a stone, the stone shall roll back and crush him" (Proverbs 26v27, emphasis mine). The two who died in the explosion should serve as a deterrent to others like them because the Church is now on it's knees and the wickedness of the wicked must come to an end in JESUS' NAME. May God deliver this nation from the evil terrorist sect, boko haram.

Those condemning the President can now see that fighting BH may not end by Military action and that is why President Jonathan and the Security Chiefs have refused to label them terrorists and that may have touched their conscience. It has given room for negotiating with them since they are not terrorists. America has been in Afghanistan , Iraq with her Military might they have not been able to bring total peace. They were in Vietnam , lost many men and left there in disgrace . It is a difficult war. Imagine Okada people carrying something that looked like a television on a okada. Who would have thought that that object was a bomb. How do you fight such war where you don't know your enemy, you don't know when they will strike. You can see the wisdom of the executive. Let al Nigerians be patient and we shall at the end sing a new song.

Those places you mentioned are different from Nigerian case.

Those behind Nigeria case are IBB, Ciroma, Kaita, Atiku and Co. But unfortunately it has gone beyond the way they expected it.

Just imagine their unachievable demand on the islamisation of Nigeria!

The real demand is for Jonathan to resign or not to contest 2015. The new NSA boss is aware of this, even GEJ himself.

It is a game of chess that is costing too much blood shed premeditated by the above blood sucking politicians.

But their problem is how to logical present it to GEJ and his supporters; which is not possible. The reason they are not attacking the south is because of their business investments.

Just imagine if Tom Ateke and his boys ask Intels in Rivers State to pack, then Atiku is finish he will openly now campaign for GEJ third term,...Boko haram will stop overnight. It is possible but GEJ is not an evil person as they think. Remember the warning to Lukman on his AFREM company, when he wanted to take the petroleum institute to the north; is he still talking again?

People are talking about non-performance. If their is any Fed govt that have performed is this govt. Just imagine the brief time in office. The truth is that, it is not business as usual. Take a look at the Military, where the North easily use as an access to power, it is now based on merit; countless changes have taken place in this admnistration. The truth is that this govt has opened the eyes of the hard working northerners that their past leaders wasted money for development on their personal gain.

Nigeria will definetly make significant progress and set the pace for further progress in GEJ admnistration.

God save nigeria and destroy the plans of the enemies.

American fight in those countries you mentioned in order to have peace in their country. American war machine keep them busy in their own country so that the terrorism does not get to United States. This is the same policy America has in Mexico to avert the deadly drug war escalating into America.

How could you have thought of that. Haven't you heard of shooting madness in this country called America? The recent one happened in Cororado, and goes on & on. Or do you compare America to a heterogeneous country like Nigeria with diverce tribes, tongues and what have you? Think wise.

ColNwanko : No one is condemning the President. All the people are saying is that one should know who are behind all these things and stop them. The suicide bombers you are shooting are only pawns on the chessboard of those exploiting religion in order to come to power. You see in a world where the resources do not go round, some people will result into this kind of method of war in order to get into political power through intimidation, because of all the benefits attached to it. And the presidency seems to be falling into their trap. Just look at the past appointments, Justice, Defence, security etc, etc, it is like making a goat to be in charge of your yam. There is nothing you can do to change the mind of this terrorist. This has been proven many times. You see their sponsors believe in a new world system, with their religion as the basis of law. But they forget, that it is impossible that all men will have one religion on earth.

We are deceiving ourselves with this so called talks with faceless organisations. It is obvious we are living in delusion. Boko Haram has moved on from being a sect with grievances to fragmented cells of internationally sponsored terrorism. If you want to get the backers of the present BH go to the Sahara Desert, go to Libya, go to Al Qaeda and then arrest the smattering of cowed sympathisers internally and some spineless politicians hoping to capitalise on jetsons and fallouts of the terrorism. The solution? You cure madness with madness.

1. Let every state have their own police force
2. True federalism (every fight in Nigeria is fight for oil)
3. Jonathanic resolve to step on toes.

All I've to say is that the Boko Haram sect should stop the spate of killings, embrace dialogue, and allow peace and tranquility to reign in the nation. We gain nothing in war but only count our numerous losses at the long run!

Imagine how many souls had gone into this violence since its inception, and how many have been brutally wounded and deformed, including innocent children, young and vibrant people with promising futures! imagine destruction of assets worth of millions of naira; imagine the effect on our economy! These are the costs of war!

I wish the evil perpetrators check the annals of history and learn that nemesis, judgement and recompense from the silent Judge will soon catch on them if they persist in their wickedness! How I wish they meet with Pharaoh, Sennacherib, Herod, to mention but a few, who met their doom without remedy because they spent their time, wealth, and effort to hurt God's people, then they will learn lessons to learn before it is too late!

Consequently, I strongly implore those behind the violence to respond to FG calls for dialogue. If they refuse and continue this way, they will very soon discover that it is dangerous for "he that girdeth on his harness to boast himself as he that putteth it off". TIME WILL TELL!

What peace talk? Who has offended them?

Peace talk with Ciroma, Atiku, IBB, Buhari, Kaita agents?

Did you hear their last statement?... 'Nigeria should be Islamised'.

Now, in the pseudo-peace talk they will demand Jonathan resignation or not to context 2015.

The script is been prepared by the above evil men, which the new NSA boss is aware.

Just watch it, their destruction is near. The blood of those innocent worshipers will not go in vain.

Members of the BH sect are fools. Your so called leader who claims he is fighting a Jihad will send you out to perish while he continues to use Western avenues to reach out to people. The You tube and telephone means of expressing his myopic views were all invented from Western education. He also uses internet as a means of communication. Is it BH that invented all these gadgets. Fools die many times before their real death. As a Jihadist he should lead by example. He should be the first to go on suicide mission. The problem with the northern moslem is indoctrination by the elites who keep their children in developed countries and waste the life's of the many who are fools and uneducated.

groups they will surely regroup themselves or other factions will resurface in the long run to also use these as a tactic to have their own part of the national cake. Use of a high place intelligence and some form of military backings will do. Do you know that the fed govt can form groups that will disguise and act like Boko Haram but not with the motive of killing people but to track Boko activities?
