

ment by the special Adviser on Public Com-

Man ‘beheads’ wife in Delta MANHUNThas begun for a suspect, simply identified as Chukwudi, after he allegedly beheaded his wife, Ndidi Emeka Mordi, following a dispute. The suspect hails from Egbudu-Aka, Aniocha Local Government of Delta State. Chukwudi, it was learnt, fled after the incident. Police spokesman Famous Ajiehsaid a man, Sunday Ogbu, reported the matter to the people and for which posterity will judge us.

From Okungbowa Aiwerie, Asaba police. The spokesman said the police have visited the scene and that the body had been deposited at a mortuary for autopsy. He confirmed the arrest of a five-member car snatching syndicate in Asaba. Among the suspects are two ladies, who were arrested with the driver of a snatched Toyota opposition, which resides in the Diaspora.

Yaris. The suspects led the police to a hotel in Asaba where the two kingpins of the gang were waiting for a prospective buyer of the car, which was snatched in Enugu. According to Ajieh, the hoodlums were apprehended with the aid of the car’s tracking system. The spokesman said the leader of the gang “Morocco” is on the run.

Kidnapping: Security agencies probe Bayelsa town

SECURITY agencies are probing the allegation that pirates use Azuzuma town in Bayelsa State as a collaboration with certain leaders and youths of the town in violation of the Kidnapping Act s

h
o