Horror killing: Father mourns victims

Posted by: Nwanosike Onu in News 16 days ago 0

The father of 22-year-old Chidiebele Mmadubuko has said his son's body can be buried in the evil forest.

Chidiebele killed two people, including his mother, and injured five others, including his father, before allegedly killing himself in Oraukwu, Amanuke Community in Awka North Local Government Area of Anambra State.

Mmadubuko said he was sad because he has two bodies to bury.

He said if it was discovered that Chidiebele killed himself, the people will not allow him to be buried in the community.

Reliving his ordeal, he said: "I attended a retreat in our church which started on Monday and ended on Friday. Chidiebele participated in the retreat held at the Holy Trinity Anglican Church, Amanuke.

"The following day, Chidiebele had a parish council meeting, which ended around 4.30pm.

"In the evening, we went to visit a friend. I returned home, took my dinner and went straight to bed.

"At 11pm, my daughter came to wake me up, asking me to leave the house that Chidiebele had started behaving like a mad person.

"I came out of the house in my boxers and went to the market square, where I saw a young boy lying on the ground, shouting for help.

"As I made to carry him, I felt a machete go down on my head. That is all I know till I woke up to hear the sad news.

"In fact, I feel it is beyond the natural, but I will wait upon the Lord to reveal it."

Prophet Ramas Asuzu, the overseer of Liberation of Absolute God, believes that some cleansing need to be performed by the family and community.

"If the family does not do the traditional cleansing, there will be sudden deaths not only in the family but in the whole community.

"It is only a man who wields "Ofo and Otosi" deities, which symbolise the truth and the symbol of authority that can do the cleansing.

"If you bury such person within the community, the spirit of suicide will be wandering about because there will be no rest.

"It will cause accidents, knock at the doors, cause miscarriages and other havoc."
