Bosun Olukoya's killer still a mystery

Posted by: Kayode Alfred in Happenstances 3 days ago

Many days after the Chairman of We-deliver.com Limited, Bosun Olukoya, was killed by gunmen in Lagos, his family and friends are still mourning and agonising over his death. They are at a loss over who could have been responsible for the gruesome act and why. The matter remains a mystery as no one can trace his death to any individual.

Olukoya, a close aide of Chief Kensington Adebute, met his death in a gruesome manner that Sunday night while returning from his favourite club, F's, in Yaba, Lagos where he was with some of his friends. He was attacked at the entrance of his house at Onike part of Yaba. He was said to have noticed a vehicle coming fast behind him and, suspecting a foul play, attempted to outrun the vehicle. But the said vehicle overtook him, and its occupants alighted and pumped bullets into Bosun's body.

The gunmen escaped with his SUV. His wife, Bisola, rushed him to an undisclosed hospital before he was flown to South Africa in an air ambulance three days later. Sadly, he died on arriving South Africa. The 43-year-old was buried penultimate Tuesday at the Vaults and Gardens Cemetery in Ikoyi, Lagos amid tears.

He is survived by his beautiful wife, Bisola, and three children.

Not a few of his friends and family members however, believe that there was more to his death than meets the eye.
