Posted by: Adekunle Jimoh, Ilorin in News 13 hours ago

There is tension in Ganmo, Ifelodun Local Government Area of Kwara State, after unknown hoodlums on Sunday night killed the eldest son of Oba Kolawole Atanda.

Ismaila Atanda was said to have been a victim of sporadic gunshots.

There has been a tussle for the throne of the Oluganmo of Ganmo.

It was gathered that the prince was killed by a gunshot fired by his assailants while he was driving to his father's palace at about 6.30 pm.

The bullet was said to have hit him on his chin, making him lose control. The car somersaulted.

It was also gathered that the prince died yesterday morning at a private hospital.

Police officers were drafted to the area to prevent a reprisal attack and break down of law and order.

Commissioner of Police Agboola Oshodi-Glover confirmed the shooting and death of the prince.

He said although no arrest was made, the Oluganmo and some chiefs had been invited for interrogation.
