34-year-old man, Kurokeme Awudu, was electrocuted in Ohorhor, Ughelli North Local Government Area of Delta State on Sunday while allegedly fiddling with a faulty power line.

Awudu, an indigene of Kpakiama in Bomadi Local Government Area, was said to be restoring a faulty power line, which supplies electricity into Bomadi and its environs.

An eyewitness, Okpako Bobo, said the deceased was travelling through Ohorhor when he observed that the community had light and his community was in darkness.

Bobo said: "He alighted from the vehicle, borrowed a ladder and climbed the pole in an attempt to reconnect the electricity supply.

"He fell off the ladder after he was electrocuted. His body was taken to the morgue of Bomadi General Hospital for post mortem."

Police spokesman Celestina Kalu said the police were not aware of the incident.
