

opposite the hotel and observed the man. We did not know the man before. He education as my father abandoned us."

Idotie, who hails from ned are not finding life easy and they are suffering also. I am the fourth in my family.

Hit-and-run driver kills man

By Ibrahim Adam

A MAN was killed by a hit-and-run commercial bus driver at Sanya Bus Stop on Oshodi-Apapa Expressway in Lagos.

The victim had alighted from another bus on a wrong way and wanted to cross the road.

Passersby tried to save him but other motorists refused to stop to convey him to hospital.

An eyewitness told The Nation: "The man alighted from the bus on the wrong way and immediately he wanted to cross the road, another bus on the right lane from behind knocked him down.

"He was hit badly because blood was coming out from his mouth, nose and ears. All attempts to make motorists come to his rescue failed before he died."

Another witness said: "The man was trying to cross the road when the accident happened. The government should try to stop this act of bus passing wrong way because many lives have been lost.

"We have witnessed a number of death cases along this route all in the name of wrong way, it's getting too much. Nigerians should also stop the habit of not trying to help at the scene of rescue. If we are talking about change, this is how to change situations for better."

A cell phone was found on the deceased and following a phone call, it was discovered that he left Ajah few hours before the accident.

His remains have been deposited at the Lagos State University Teaching Hospital (LASUTH) morgue in Ikeja.

Hearing stalled in Lagos govt, Oritsajefor case

HEARING in a suit

lion, which it paid in excess