

I couldn't point my life may be at with the govern- neighbourhood et to prevent situ- e said.

alekan Daramola, m hasn't been the incident.

en beat him with : "Before I could house it took me f us could escape ere more than us. sleep that was why before help came. them at all. I don't became a crime to outside one's house. ed to move out."

ho didn't give his uspected the hood- m Paul Oguntola aba.

olicemen in our d. We are being se boys. They just now. The govern- ook into this mat-

Law of Lagos State.

The charge claimed that the defendants conspired to "cause injury to the person and reputation of YABATECH Rector Dr Margaret Kudirat Ladipo".

Ibirogba alone was accused of brought by the rector and the council, Justice Valentine Ashi also retrained Ibirogba from granting any interview or causing to be published any statement in any media outfit, pending the determination of the substantive suit.

One dies, three injured in explosion

A 37-YEAR-OLD man, Odunayo Folorunso, yesterday, died in an explosion at the Golden Penny Flour Mill, Eric Moore in Surulere, Lagos.

It was gathered that the incident occurred in the morning just as workers resumed for their daily activity.

Director, State Fire Service Razaq Fadipe said he received distress calls around 10.55am but on getting there, the late folorunso's body was found in the boiler machine.

He said: "There was no outbreak of fire. We realised that the boiler got burst and with full force hit and threw the man."

Fadipe urged people to be observant and always service their equipment regularly to avoid similar situations.

The incident suspected to be a gas explosion caused panic in the Eric Moore axis as many thought that it was probably the handiwork of the insurgent group, Boko Haram.

Police new spokesperson Patricia Amadin said she wasn't aware of the incident.

However, National Emergency Management Agency(NEMA) confirmed that one person dead and that three people injured.

"We don't know if it is gas explosion or an improvised explosive device(IED) until investigation is concluded," NEMA Spokesman Ibrahim Farinloye said.

old him there was accurate figure since had been used for the store, they (management) are the ones that keep the keys. The resign to prevent his early death because of the constant