One Mr Paul Unegu of Hausa quarters in Izzi Unuphu community, Abakaliki Local Government Area of Ebonyi State has been arrested for killing his elder brother, Sunday Unegu.

Paul, who killed his elder brother in a scuffle, was arrested on Thursday.

The victim, Sunday, was said to have accused Paul of stealing his fowls and has been warning him to desist from the act.

The victim's wife, Ifeoma, told sympathizers that Paul continued to steal the husband's fowls, which she said led to a fight between the two brothers.

She said: 'I told my husband not to go to Paul's house because of the matter, because I know how he behaves, but he did not listen to my advice.

"Look at what it has resulted to; I am now a widow at this early stage of my life.'

An eyewitness said the victim confronted Paul with a bottle during the fight, but later went for a cutlass.

"So, when Sunday came back with the cutlass, Paul confronted him and the two of them started struggling with the cutlass.

"In the process, the cutlass cut his throat and he fell down, while blood started gushing out seriously."

Police spokesman, ASP George Okafor, who confirmed the incident, said the suspect has been arrested.

He noted that the state police command received a distress call on the matter, and that by the time policemen arrived the scene, the victim was all ready in a pool of his blood.

Okafor said the victim was taken to hospital where he was confirmed dead.
