

Troops kill Boko Haram insurgents

Posted By: Patrick Ngwaogu, Abuja on: May 05, 2016 In: News No Comments

The Army yesterday said that troops of 120 Task Force Battalion, 27 Task Force Brigade, in conjunction with vigilance group members on patrol, intercepted five Boko Haram terrorists at Gotumba area of Borno State.

They were allegedly trying to move logistic items to suspected Boko Haram hideouts at Aluwa, using five donkeys.

According to the report, the terrorists, on sighting the patrol team, ran and abandoned the items. The troops pursued and killed three of them, while two escaped with gunshot injuries.

The military statement listed items recovered from them as: three packets of Tramol, two packets of Lamumol, seven packets of Really Extra, two packets of Viagra, and 14 of washing soaps. Other items include four rolls of Klin detergent, two packets of razor blade, 14 packets of Maggi cubes, half-bag of table salt, five bicycle tyres and tubes, two quick patch for tubes, one roll of matches and 10 pairs of rubber shoes. The troops also recovered large quantity of potash, onions, locust beans, some quantity of rice, mats and tarpaulin.

The statement added: "In a related development, based on information, troops of 7 Division Garrison today in conjunction with Civilian JTF, arrested Alhaji Bulama Budu at Old Maiduguri general area.

"Preliminary investigation shows that Alhaji Budu, who hailed from Aiwa village, Mafa Local Government Area, was one of the Boko Haram terrorists detained at Giwa Barracks before he escaped when his colleagues, Boko Haram terrorists, attacked the facility and released the insurgents in March 2014.

"His arrest would further lend credence to Army investigation on the incident about the number of people killed by the terrorists and those that escaped that day. He is being interrogated by the Joint Intelligent Committee."
