

statement and explaining what they knew nothing about.

Headless body at Ijako/Owode

No sooner had the Sango-Overhead Bridge people heaved a sigh of relief and began enjoying free air again, than the horror shifted to Ijako/Owode axis, also in Ado-Odo/Ota Local Government Area. A headless body, most probably another victim of ritualists, lay by the roadside, causing commotion and literally shutting down commercial activities in its immediate environment. Walking past, especially in the later days of the rotting corpse became a sight only for the steel-minded, while the poignant odour caused many to nearly suffocate, as they tried unsuccessfully to hold out the bad air.

The horror lasted some odd days; and that was despite repeated calls on the appropriate quarters in the local government to wake up to their duty.

Lagos-Ibadan Expressway Long Bridge

Recently, another corpse was left to rot in the open for days at Kara area of

D ta

