The late Okonikhere

The police in Lagos have arrested a man who allegedly strangled his lover to death at Orile.

The unnamed man was said to have committed the offence last Sunday during a scuffle and abandoned the victim, Joy Okonikhere in his apartment.

It was gathered that his neighbours discovered her dead body and notified the police, who launched a manhunt for him.

According to the deceased's father, Okhonikere, the suspect was yet to explain what led to the fight between them.

He said: "He has not been forthcoming on the cause of the scuffle. He has been saying different things. I am in Benin at the moment for the burial but the matter has been transferred to the State Criminal Investigation and Intelligence Department (SCIID). You can go to the police for information."

A family friend, May Ebute who shared the news on social media said the suspect claimed he only put his hand on the victim's neck.

She said: "He said during the scuffle, he just put his hands around her neck to scare her and she stopped breathing. He said he didn't mean to kill her. How can just putting your hands around someone's neck kill her if not that the person was strangled?"

"Well she's dead now and no amount of 'I didn't mean to kill her' will bring her back. I just spoke with her brother and he confirmed the news. The murderer is with the police. I wish I could find the words to express the anger I am feeling now.

"The girl just graduated from the university and lived in Lagos with her parents. I shared the information so that young people can learn and know the kind of people they hang out with.
