A 22-year old man, Muyideen Olabode Ibidun, was shot dead on Saturday evening by members of a suspected cult group in Osogbo, the Osun State capital.

An Ordinary Diploma graduate of the State College of Technology, Esa-Oke, Muyideen, who is popularly called by friends “Don Richiies”, “Agenda” and “Killer Boi”, was said to have been killed by six suspected cultists, who reportedly rode on two motorcycles.

They accosted him at Ga Fulani around Sadiat in Osogbo at 6pm, where he had gone in company of his friend, simply called Skinny, to inspect a car he wanted to buy the following day.

According to an eyewitness, Muyideen was planning a party for friends and family members yesterday to celebrate the car he wanted to buy.

Muyideen, whose father is an iron/steel merchant and mother a nurse, last year travelled to Tanzania, South Africa, Namibia and Malaysia for two weeks to “launch” his new international passport with which he plans to travel to the United States next year.

His remains were yesterday buried at the back of Nawarudeen Mosque at Sabo amid tears and wailing.

A boy simply called “Omo Emi” was killed by suspected cultists at old Garage in Osogbo.

The suspects were said to have broken the victim’s head with concrete interlocking blocks.

The police used tear gas to disperse some boys protesting the spate of killings among rival cult groups in Osogbo at Oja Oba area as they attempted to draw the attention of the Ataoja of Osogbo, Oba Jimoh Olanipekun, to the development.

There were also protests yesterday at Egbededo Street and Sabo, where aggrieved boys erected bonfires.

Police spokesperson Ms. Folasade Odoro said the police had begun investigations into the killing.

She added that a suspect, Gbolahan Yusuf, has been arrested.
