

Woman dies in bus

By Olatunde Odebiyi

A WOMAN died yesterday in a bus on her way to Iseyin in Oyo State.

She was said to have left a hospital in Mushin, Lagos, and was returning to her Iseyin home.

A food vendor who simply identified herself as Suffiyah, said the woman died at Sango Ota in Ogun State.

"She boarded the bus at Iseyin garage in Ladipo, near Matori, Lagos. She came with her boyfriend and his friend. She has no family in Lagos, she came to Lagos to hustle and find a means of livelihood.

"We learnt that she committed abortion in a hospital. Her boyfriend and his friend took her away from the hospital when they noticed she was not feeling fine. Their plan was to take her back to her Iseyin home, even though they claimed that they do not know her relations. It was unfortunate that the woman died before they got to Iseyin. That was why they came back with her corpse in the same bus. They are likely to either drop her at the road side or take her to a mortuary," she said.

Another eye witness said the woman was brought back to Iseyin garage around 3pm yesterday, adding that she died around 1pm.

"The two boys that were with her took her away. We do not know where they would take her to and we do not have their names or details," he said.
