

Police nab two suspected killers of student

Posted By: Damisi Ojo On: August 28, 2017 In: News, News Update

0

The police in Ondo State have arrested two suspects, who allegedly kidnapped and killed a female student of Adeyemi College of Education, Ondo, for rituals.

The command said yesterday it had arrested two of the suspects, who allegedly used the student for money rituals.

The student was declared missing by her friends days after she reportedly left home.

Luck ran out on the suspects after one of them was nabbed in a robbery, during which it was discovered he and others were linked to the kidnap of the student.

This led to the arrest of another suspect. The third is at large.

Confirming the incident, police spokesman Femi Joseph said the mutilated and decomposing body of the student had been recovered by detectives, who are grilling the suspects.

He said the suspects would be arraigned after investigation and advised parents and guardians to monitor their children and wards.