

...the Alausa accident... yesterday

•The damaged car... yesterday

Driver killed, another injured in road crashes

A BUS driver identified as Ifeanyi died yesterday on the Third Mainland Bridge after his vehicle collided with a Toyota Camry saloon car. The accident occurred around 3pm.

It was gathered that the Camry, marked FKJ441CN, which was heading to Obalende, had a break failure, rammed into a stationary bus (LSR531XT) and killed Ifeanyi on the spot.

The car driver was said to

By Precious Igbonwelundu

have sustained serious injuries and was treated by officials of the Lagos State Ambulance Service (LASAM-BUS).

According to a witness, officials of the Lagos State Emergency Management Agency (LASEMA) evacuated the body and towed the vehicles off the road for free flow of traffic.

Meanwhile, another young man escaped death by whiskers at Tollgate in Alausa after a container fell on his car.

It was gathered that the truck was being chased by officials of the Federal Road Safety Commission (FRSC), who fled as soon as the accident occurred.

A motorist, who witnessed the incident, said the container flattened the vehicle.

He said: "It is just God. The accident occurred less than a minute after the young man dropped off three passengers he had in the car. FRSC officials were chasing the truck. It seems they stopped the truck driver and he refused to obey.

"They pursued and tried to block him. He swerved to avoid them and that was how the load tripped and the 20ft container fell on the car.

"As usual, the FRSC people sped off immediately. Those FRSC people at Ojota need to be investigated for untoward activities. They engage in indiscriminate ar-

Navy uncovers new vendal/bo...