

In another development, the police have arrested a tricyclist, Chidiebere Okafor for the alleged murder of his colleague, Frank Onah at Ifako.

The incident occurred at Yetunde Brown Street, Gbagada.

It was gathered that the suspect pushed Onah while they were dragging a piece of paper.

Onah was said to have hit his head against a stone and died at the General Hospital where he was rushed to.

The command's spokesman, Chike Oti, a Superintendent of Police (SP) said both cases were being investigated.

He said no mark of violence was seen on the late Ikhina, adding that there was no one with him in his room.

Oti said: "The man was due for retirement next year and he was in Lagos for pre-retirement training. Apparently he fell and there was no one to assist him. He was found dead inside his room.

"For the second case, the suspect has been arrested and investigation is ongoing. They were arguing and it later turned physical."
