A soldier has been reportedly killed by suspected Fulani herdsmen in Tseke, a border settlement between Benue and Taraba states, on Anyiin/Wukari road.

This is coming barely two days after the military launched Operation Whirl Stroke, with a promise to flush out militia.

A community leader, Chief Joseph Anawah, said soldiers ran into an ambush during patrol.

The suspects opened fire on their truck and killed a soldier.

An eyewitness, Torbee Anande, said the herdsmen burnt the truck.

It was gathered soldiers stationed in Kente, Makurdi-Ugba and Katsina-Ala mobilised and were heading to the troubled settlements.

Police spokesman Moses Yamu said he was yet to get the report.

Bandits yesterday morning abducted the three wives of Alhaji Adamu Nakwana, a businessman in Maganda Village, Birnin Bwari Local Government Area of Kaduna State.

The attack, which occurred about 2 am, is coming six days after the Chief of Army Staff, Lt.-Gen. Tukur Buratai, visited Birnin Gwari and ordered troops to hunt down kidnappers.

Efforts to reach the police spokesman, Mukhtar Aliyu, were unsuccessful.

A resident of Maganda, who pleaded for anonymity, said: "The bandits locked down the town. They went straight to Alhaji Adamu's house and took away his three wives.

"They did not harm any person but people are fleeing as they do not know if they will come back for another attack."

"The bandits later released one of the women and gave her a number that Alhaji Adamu should call them, probably to negotiate ransom."
