

In Benin, the state capital, a technician, identified as Godbless Olitan, was reportedly killed by suspected cultists near Oliha Market.

Eyewitnesses said his assailants drove a Toyota Camry car.

The deceased was said to have received a call at home that a customer was waiting for him at his shop near the market.

Four other persons were reportedly killed around Upper Uwa, Isiemwerho, between First and Second East Circular Road and at Uwhene Ugbague road axis of the city.

Police spokesman Chidi Nwabuzor, a Deputy Superintendent of Police (DSP), could not be reached for comments last night.
