Woman killed by suspected ritualists

From Elo Edremoda, Warri

3 AN unidentified woman has been murdered by suspected ritualists in Sapele, Delta State.

The woman said to be in her 20s was found on Monday morning, along Ogorode Road, with a white rope tied around one of her ankles.

Sapele has been in the news lately for the killing of two other young ladies in unexplained circumstances.

The Nation also reported the death of one Godwin Iwere, who was reportedly found dead in another part of the town barely three days ago.

The Commissioner of Police, Delta Command confirmed the incident.

"Yes," he said, she was killed by suspected ritualists. We think so because of the white rope tied around her leg."

Witnesses claim that the corpse of the lady was found with blood stains and with severe cuts in a shallow swamp along the road.

They alleged that some of her vital organs were missing.

A source said, "The lifeless body was found Monday morning with blood all over her body seemingly stabbed to death by unknown persons."

Council boss of Sapele, Hon Eugene Inoaghan recently advised hotel operators in the council to address the increasing killings in the area.
