

Two feared dead as police, youths clash in Anambra

April 15, 2020 in News, News Update

0

By Emma Elekwa, Onitsha

Two persons were feared dead in a clash between the police and a group of youths in Nkpor, near Onitsha, Anambra state.

The deceased were said to have been allegedly shot by the police after they were reportedly attacked with acid.

A resident of the area, who claimed to be a witness, preferred anonymity, said only one death was recorded in the incident.

“They are two in number but one was rushed to the hospital according to report the one rushed to the hospital couldnt make it. He is dead already,” he said.

Read Also; Hoodlums stab DELSU lecturer

The police spokesperson, Haruna Mohammed, confirmed the report, describing it as unprovoked attack on Police patrol team.

He said efforts were ongoing to restore sanity in the area.

He said: “It was an unprovoked attack on Police patrol team with substance suspected to be acid by some miscreants.

“Yes they snatched the rifle of the Policeman after pouring acid on him which prompted the other policemen to use force and retrieved the rifle.”

---

Previous Post

Maltreatment of Nigerians in China resolved- Gbajabiamila

Next Post

Edo Commissioner of Police confirms killing of four in Benin

---

Discussion about this post