

Ebonyi lawmaker's brother found dead in car booth

May 27, 2020 in City Beats, News Update

0

From Ogochukwu Anioke, Abakaliki

A middle-aged man has been found dead in the booth of his car on the busy Abakaliki/Afikpo Expressway in Ebonyi State.

The man, Mr Samuel Aleke, was said to be the younger brother of Victor Aleke, who represents Ebonyi North West in the state House of Assembly.

Aleke was said to have left his house in the evening of Saturday, May 23 and was not seen until Sunday in the booth of his car dead.

Read Also: Missing Ogun hotelier found dead in car trunk

A source, who spoke anonymously, said the deceased told his wife that he was going to collect an earpiece from a friend.

The source said that after several hours of waiting in vain for his return, his wife raised the alarm and a search for him began.

The Nation gathered that he might have been beaten and strangled by unknown assailants.

Police spokesperson, Loveth Odah, confirmed the incident, adding that his body had been recovered and deposited at a mortuary.

An investigation had begun into the incident, she said.

---

Previous Post

 Woman, daughter electrocuted

Next Post

 Millions gone in Delta market fires

---

Discussion about this post