

Four killed in Delta cult clashes

FOUR persons were reportedly shot dead in suspected cult clashes in two communities in Delta state on Wednesday evening.

The Nation learned that one of the deceased persons was shot in Ekurede Itsekiri community, while the other three were gunned down in Egbokodo, near Ubeji, both in Warri

From Elo Edremoda, Warri

South council area of the state.

One of the victims of Egbokodo cult clash is identified simply as Tuoyo, while another was reportedly a youth leader in the community.

Meanwhile, the immediate past chairman of Warri South Local Government Area of Delta State, Dr Michael Tidi, has called on stakeholders and community leaders across the council area to put an end to cultism by joining in the fight against the vice.

Tidi, in a statement made available to newsmen in Warri, condemned the rising spate of cult-related killings in the council area.

Stating that the "killings must stop," Tidi tasked relevant stakeholders to volunteer information to security agencies on the whereabouts of the suspected hoodlums.
