In a fit of rage, a resident of the Ilasan area of Lekki, Lagos, Chris Ndukwe, allegedly killed his lover, Olamide Alli, 25, with a kitchen knife before killing himself with a poisonous substance he ingested on a Sunday in June, 2020.

Olamide, who lived at Ogba, a Lagos suburb, was said to have had a complicated relationship with Ndukwe for over seven years and had two children aged seven and three with him.

He was said to have stabbed her multiple times in the head and eyes with different kitchen knives after he gagged her mouth and bound her hands.

Two kitchen knives and two bottles of insecticides were found in the house, the police said.
