It was gathered that the suspects lured the victim to the farm where, he was allegedly slaughtered by own blood brother, Ismaila Saliu. Ismaila's other accomplices are Ahmed Nkwe (herbalist) and Saliu Ahmed.

Spokesperson of the Nigeria Security and Civil Defence Corps (NSCDC) Babawale Afolabi confirmed the incident.

He said that Luck later ran

out of the suspects as they were rounded up by the operatives of the NSCDC on their way back from the farm.

Afolabi added happened on Friday last week at Kosubosu area of Baruten local government of the state.

He said that "operatives of the NSCDC in Kosubosu divisional office got a distressed call from a neighborhood about suspicious movement of certain individuals in their area. Some officers in the divisional office with operatives of the anti vandal patrol team in the area swung into action and subsequently arrested an herbalist Ahmed Nkwe 44, Ismaila Saliu 25 and Saliu Ahmed 30.

"The prime suspect, who is brother to the deceased has confessed to have personally slaughtered his brother with the help of the herbalist and one other person."

He added that state Commandant of NSCDC, Iskil Ayinla Makinde had ordered that the suspects be handed over to the police for further investigations and prosecution.
