

Two women killed in Delta communities

From Elo Edremoda, Warri

TWO women, identified as Mummy Joy and Mrs Lucky Napoleon, have been killed in Ekpan and Igbide communities respectively in Uvwie and Isoko South local government areas of Delta State.

While the former was shot on her forehead around 6:30 a.m. on Friday by suspected robbers, the latter was beheaded on Thursday by assailants suspected to be from the neighbouring Okpoko-Enwhe Community.

The late Mummy Joy, said to be the mother of a local disc jockey popularly known as DJ Millo, was reportedly on her way to buy snacks which she retails daily.

She was accosted along Jakpa Road by gunmen who reportedly drove on a tricycle, otherwise known as Keke Napep.

According to reports, her corpse was found with bullet wounds on the roadside. Her money and mobile phone were said to be missing.

On the other hand, Mrs Napoleon was attacked, alongside her husband, in their farm close to Owodokpokpo Grammar School, Igbide, for allegedly trespassing on disputed land.
