

Man held for allegedly killing grandmother

A YOUNG man identified as Vincent has been arrested by men of the Ondo State Police Command for allegedly killing his grandmother, Florence Olaloye, in the Sabo area of Ondo town, Ondo West Local Government Area.

The body of the woman who was allegedly hacked by the suspect was found in her room by one of her grandsons, Pelumi.

Pelumi was sent to buy snails but returned to find the woman in the pool of her blood.

From Osagie Otabor,
Akure

He raised the alarm and the case was reported at the Fagun police station in the area.

Pelumi said: "As I was about to leave the house, my brother, Vincent came in and said he wanted to iron his clothes. I went inside the room and gave him the iron and I left to get the snail.

"When I came back, my brother was still in the room with my grandmother. After, he asked me to bring firewood. When I came back, I met grandma on the floor in the pool of her blood.

"Grandmother and my brother were not in good term on the issue that my brother smokes marijuana. On the fateful day, a fight erupted between them before I left the house because my brother did not do the work grandmother gave to him" he explained.

But Vincent who spoke before his arrest said he also found his grandmother dead in the room

"I came home, I later went to Orimolade where I saw my friend. He later followed me home to drink garri. On getting home, my mother was sleeping. I went to my grandmother's house where I met her body on the floor."

Ondo Police spokesman, SP Funmi Odunlami, said investigations has commenced into the incident.