Dr. Olaolu Mudashiru, son of former Lagos Military Administrator, Air Commodore Gbolahan Mudashiru (rtd), was yesterday morning killed by a hit-and-run driver in the Ikoyi area of the state.

Dr. Mudashiru, 68, it was learnt, was killed around 5am while cycling along Gerrard Road, near the Nigerian National Petroleum Limited (NNPCL) Station at Ikoyi with two of his friends.

A resident of highbrow Banana Island, the deceased was said to be on his routine bike ride when a car knocked him down and the driver fled the scene.

Although all three persons sustained varying injuries and were rushed to Lagoon hospital alive, Dr. Mudashiru was said to have passed on while receiving treatment.

Police spokesman, SP Benjamin Hundeyin said the other two victims of the accident were still receiving treatment.

He said efforts were being made to arrest the fleeing driver, adding that investigation had commenced.
