

Pastor shoots self while hunting deer

A PASTOR of the Christ Apostolic Church (CAC), Oke Idahun, Oba-Ile, Akure, George Olusanya Omoolorun, has shot himself to death while on a hunting expedition.

Witnesses said he shot at a deer but his gun backfired and rather killed him.

The witnesses said he was on a hunting expedition at Apeju Street, Oba-Ile, Akure North Local Government area of Ondo State. Some claimed the deer had "Ifa" inscriptions on its body.

According to one of the witnesses, "When the wife of the deceased realised her husband did not return home on that day, she became worried. She puts a call to him but his phone was ringing without any response." The wife became afraid and called the deceased's sister and some other neighbors who embarked on a search for him.

"By the time they got to the farm, they met him lying helpless on the ground with the mysterious deer, standing by his side." They met him in the bush with his hand held onto his body where he sustained a bullet wound.

"They met the deer beside the hunter unhurt but was caught when it tried to escape. They discovered Ifa inscriptions on the deer." The source said the deer was taken to Oba Ile Police station but later died. Police sources at the Oba-Ile Police Division confirmed the report.
