

COULD CAUSE CRISIS IN THE SCHOOL.

Widow demands justice for son's murder

From Emma Elekwa, Onitsha

4 A WIDOW, Mrs. Lucy Obasi, has demanded justice against the killers of her son, Chikaodili in Nkpor, Idemili North Local Government Area of Anambra State.

Obasi, who described the deceased as the "baby of the house", said she scarcely ate having lost peace and appetite since the incident occurred.

Chikaodili, a scrap dealer from Ebonyi State was allegedly stabbed to death by his two partners with a broken bottle, over sharing of the sum of N1,600 given to them after a business transaction.

His corpse was later deposited at the hospital morgue by the police for autopsy. Narrating her ordeal at her residence yesterday, the devastated woman lamented the delay in arresting the assailants two months after, insisting they would not go scot-free.

She said: "He is the only one that is close to give me joy as he was living with me before they killed him. His elder brother is based in Lagos and occasionally comes."

Air strikes kill fleeing bandits in Kaduna