

Cult clash claims 'Commissioner' in Delta

•CP orders arrest of cops over 'brutality'

A CULT suspect identified as "Commissioner" has been killed in renewed cult rivalry at Orhuwhorun community in Udu council area of Delta state.

Residents of the community reportedly scampered to safety as sounds of gunshots by suspected gang members of the deceased, who were on a retaliatory mission, rent the air, around noon, yesterday.

The situation also forced business owners to shutdown activities.

The Nation gathered that Commissioner died from several machet cuts after gunshots from his assailants failed to bring him down, Tuesday evening.

However, news of his death filtered into the community yesterday, throwing residents into panic.

Some roadside traders have returned to their trade at the time of filing this report.

Meanwhile, the state's Commissioner of Police (CP), Wale Abass, has ordered the detention of policemen caught in a recent viral video assaulting some persons at Ekredjebor Community, Ughelli North LGA.

He condemned the act and ordered the detention of the officers involved.
