

Abiodun mourns ex Special Adviser Odemuyiwa

Our Reporter April 3, 2024

Odemuyiwa served as the governor's aide during his first term in office. He reportedly died in an accident yesterday on his way to Lead City University, Ibadan, Oyo State capital, where he was a lecturer.

Ogun State Governor Dapo Abiodun has described the tragic death of Prof. Joseph Odemuyiwa, his former Special Adviser on Vocational and Technical Education, as a great loss to the state and the education sector.

Read Also: Abiodun mourns as former aide dies in auto crash

Prince Abiodun, in a condolence message, described the death of Odemuyiwa as tragic and sad, saying his death was a great loss to the state, his family and the education sector.

Related Posts

- Anchor Borrowers Scheme empowers 40,000 farmers, says Abiodun
- Abiodun promises more infrastructural development
- Abiodun mourns as former aide dies in auto crash

He said the erstwhile special adviser was a team player who contributed to the success recorded by his administration in the vocational and technical education during first term.